Keynote Address

When Rome is Burning

The Effects of a Global
Decline in Biodiversity

Dr. Phoebe Barnard

Executive Director

Pacific Biodiversity Institute

After spending most of her career in South Africa, Dr. Barnard and her husband recently moved to our area. She brings impressive credentials as a highly motivated climate change ecologist, conservation biologist, sustainability strategist, and environmental planner. Dr. Barnard is passionate about bringing attention to the decline in global biodiversity and how we can respond proactively in a way that gives as many species as possible a chance to survive the gauntlet of the next 300 years of dizzying environmental change.
