Award-winning, environmental journalists Michael Werner and Katie Campbell will share fascinating stories from behind the camera. We'll hear about documentary filmmaking, view video clips and laugh at the wild happenings that can occur when making a documentary film.

Katie Campbell - multi-media journalist for EarthFix environmental news programming at Seattle's KCTS 9 public television. Her experience runs the gamut from teaching journalism to newspaper writer and editor, photojournalist, and documentary filmmaker.

The Filmmakers

Michael Werner - independent filmmaker, whose work has been featured on PBS, KCTS 9 Quest, HBO Films, Associated Press, and at the Cannes Int'l Film Festival. An Emmy award winning filmmaker, Michael has a unique gift for finding and capturing revealing human moments.

This event benefits Friends of Skagit Beaches programs including lectures, films, and citizen science projects led by dedicated community of volunteers.
